

Provenance Partners Limited Modern Slavery Statement 2025

Introduction to Modern Slavery

'Our country should be proud of our efforts in the past on modern slavery and we should strive to be proud again. Modern slavery has no place in any part of our country, every victim must be supported, and every perpetrator convicted.' (Safeguarding Minister Rt Hon.Jess Philips Jun2024):

Provenance wholly subscribes to the above sentiment and understands that slavery, servitude, forced labour and human trafficking is a global issue which exists in every region of the world and in every sector of the economy. It is not always obvious or easy to see, and in this respect all of Provenance's staff and employees are expected to remain vigilant to the problem, understand the risks and report any suspected abuses to the management.

Modern Slavery is where a person is:

- Forced to work (through mental or physical threat)
- Owned or controlled by an "employer" (usually through mental or physical abuse or the threat of abuse)
- Dehumanised, treated as a commodity or bought and sold as "property"
- Physically constrained or has restrictions placed on his or her freedom of movement

There are four overarching models of forced labour in supply chains: State sponsored or controlled; Employer controlled; Recruitment Intermediary controlled; and' Gang/Exploiter controlled. All four models need to be considered in relation to supply chains.

Provenance Organisational Structure and Business

Provenance Partners Limited is a subsidiary of Dole UK Limited (which in turn is a wholly owned subsidiary of Dole plc, an American public limited company). The company had a turnover of £90.86 million in 2024 and had 21 employees, all based and working in the United Kingdom. The business of the company is the worldwide sourcing of a variety of exotic fresh vegetables. These vegetables are packed, marketed and distributed in the United Kingdom and Europe. Provenance's main customers are Marks and Spencer and Sainsbury's, although a range of Processors, Wholesalers and markets are also supplied.

Provenance Partners Supply chain

Provenance sources produce worldwide. The main regions it deals with are Africa (mainly North and East Africa), South and Central America, India and the United Kingdom. Transparency within Provenance's whole supply chain is a key focus for the business. Provenance understands the complexities that can be inherent in the fresh produce supply chain, and, in as many cases as possible, tries to deal directly with the primary producers of that product.

Provenance Partners understands that the integrity of the product has a direct impact not only on the basic human rights of people who are instrumental in production, but also on its own reputation and the brand integrity of its customers. All of these interests must be aligned to create a responsible, sustainable and value adding entity.

The Basis of Provenance Partner's approach to Modern Slavery

Modern Slavery Statement

This Modern Slavery Statement serves to:

- Document the Company's commitment to combatting modern slavery and human trafficking
- To invite all the Company's employees to embrace the challenge of helping suppress the rise of a global crime
- To remind Suppliers of their role in preserving the integrity of the supply chain from the field to the fork.

The Board will be responsible for ensuring that the statement is updated annually and reflects the company's focus and activities in highlighting and tackling modern slavery in its supply base.

If any Supplier is thought to be guilty of Modern Slavery, it is Provenance's intention to report these practices to the relevant authorities for further investigation and cease dealing with such a Supplier if these suspicions are proved to be true.

Basic requirement

The Basic requirement for all of Provenance's Suppliers is detailed below. These requirements will be communicated via the Supplier packs which will be updated and reissued annually.

- Adherence to the ETI base code
- Membership of SEDEX
- Conduct SMETA audits, where current risk assessments have highlighted the requirement.
- Ensure that all non-conformances raised during SMETA audit are closely out within agreed deadline.

The Suppliers will also be directed to other relevant policies in relation to Modern Slavery.

Risk Assessment

Provenance Partner's supply chain will be mapped out in detail in order to understand its complexity. A risk assessment will be carried out on each Supplier and service provider. The results of these risk assessments will allow Provenance to prioritise its attention in relation to the area of Modern Slavery. This does not mean that suppliers which have been identified as lower risk will be expected to adhere to any less stringent criteria, but those identified as higher risk will be subjected to increased auditing and scrutiny. Where an assessment has identified a high level of risk, Provenance will endeavour to elicit more information from Suppliers to understand whether any unacceptable practices are being carried out. The outcome of risk assessments will be reviewed a regular basis.

Training

Relevant employees will be sent on external training courses to make sure that they are made aware of the many aspects of Modern Slavery. It is the intention that this training will be refreshed as necessary in the light of changing conditions. Internal training will be carried out to increase awareness of all members of staff to the aspects of Modern Slavery.

Raising awareness with Suppliers

All Suppliers are reminded of the provisions of the Modern Slavery Act via Supplier Approval packs which are issued and distributed on an annual basis. Provenance undertakes to reinforce these provisions on any visits to Suppliers through the year.

UK suppliers are provided with details of relevant training courses and workshops and are encouraged to attend and to disseminate their learnings into their own supply chains.

Non-UK Suppliers are sent details of relevant organisations in their own countries who can provide training, information and support in relation to Modern Slavery. All Suppliers in high-risk areas will be encouraged to engage with NGO's and stakeholders.

Monitoring through Supplier visits and audits

SMETA audits will be undertaken and Supplier visits will be carried out by members of Provenance Partners. Where there is a concern additional audits will be commissioned by independent third parties specialising in areas of forced labour/modern slavery.

Area of focus for the 2025 Financial Year

- Continued engagement with the supply base and service suppliers both with in the UK and overseas.
- Review risk assessment on each Supplier. Consider the results of these assessments to prioritise focus and attention in relation to the area of Modern Slavery.
- If a risk assessment shows a high risk of Modern slavery in a particular region, suppliers will be required to complete an ethical Trade and Human rights self-assessment questionnaire.
- Follow up visits to high risk suppliers will be carried out on a risk assessed basis.
- Continue to increase awareness of Suppliers of the risk of modern slavery within their business and supply chain.
- Ensuring all relevant members of staff have undertaken Stronger together training.
- Reviewing procedures/policies in place as part of the piece work that is to be carried out formalising Provenance Partners Ltd ESG strategy.

This statement is made pursuant to section 54(1) of the Modern Slavery Act 2015 and constitutes a slavery and human trafficking statement for the financial year ending 31st December 2024.
